Version Originals (VOST)

Courchevel has three very good little cinemas. Two in 1850 and one in 1650.

The Tremplin 1850, below the Tremplin restaurant in the Croisette which renovated and fitted with digital projectors and sound last year.

The Terminal which is located at the top of the luge run which has some of the most comfy cinema chairs around and The Villard, based down in Courchevel 1650.

TREMPLIN 1850

Mon 4th Jan 6pm - ITS COMPLICATED

Tues 5th Jan 9pm

Cast: Meryl Streep, Alec Baldwin, Steve Martin, John Krasinski
Verdict: Jane (Streep) has been divorced from Jake (Baldwin) for a decade, but after a boozy night they begin an affair — despite the fact that he's remarried to Agness (Bell). Things swiftly become complicated, especially after Jane meets nice-guy architect Adam (Martin).

Thinks I've learnt this week

Amber, on medication, will laugh at almost any joke.

Marlon(Kalico) possibly had the hardest job over NYE

When it comes to poker Ross is incredibly lucky

Sam(MW) thinks he's the best barman in the Dahu

It's a shame Tom (Sams boss) disagrees

WANT YOU!
to dish the dirt

One of the major criticisms, One of the MANY major criticisms I get about this paper is that of all the Courchevel villages it only covers 1850 and sometimes 1650. The explanation for this is simple. I live in and drink around the bars of 1850 and so I hear what goes on in 1850. That's where you come in. If you have any stories, gossip, photos, suggestions etc. I want to hear from you.

I am usually in one of the 1850 bars every evening. Alternatively for those of you who are more technically minded you can email be directly on info@courchevelenquirer.com
The Courchevel Enquirer comes out every Saturday. I look forward to hearing from you.

Confidentiality assured! honestly!!

Happy New Year

Amber, Alex, Jo, Jenny, Louis, Emma, George, Charlie

Possibly the hardest job in resort.

I'm sure over new years there were a lot taxing jobs carried out by a lot of very skilled people around resort. The Michelin starred chef, the pyrotechnic engineer, the DJ on the piste. But in my opinion there was one person who spent the night "directing traffic" at the entrance to Kalico. On one side of the door was a scrum of people all wanting to get into the club. On the other side of the door was a scrum of people all wanting to get out the club to have a fag. The final group were people who after finishing their smoking (and because they didn't have their coats) then wanted to get back in the club as quickly as possible. And in middle was Marlon. Like the referee at a rugby match making sure the scrum didn't collapse. "Let me in Marlon!" "Let my friend in". I don't know how he kept his cool all night. I would like to think the English were good at queuing but from what I saw those English had decided to stay at home that night.

ALICE(MW) WARNS

Dancing in a night club in the early hours of new years day while surrounded by loads of non-english seasonnaires (French) gives you a perfect reason to go home early (even though we are in France)

A note from the editor

So now the hangover from the end of the noughties has officially subsided it's time to start 2010 (MMX) or 5770 if you follow the Hebrew calendar and a new decade. But the big debate is do we call it twenty ten or two thousand and ten? According to the Vancouver olympic committee it's the former until we get to 2011 when two thousand and eleven sounds better.

Another question is what do we call the new decade? the teenies sounds like a cbeebies program so maybe a word like "Roaring 20s" for the 1920s, would help.

Personally I'm copyrighting the term "tumultuous ten's" as, if nothing else, it sounds good.
Maybe I should be called 2010- the decade that Courchevel finally pulls it finger out and instead of kissing a select few Russian asses starts supporting the mass English holiday maker market.
Who am I kidding....
Seriously I would like to wish you all a Happy New Year, may it be better than 2009 and may all your dreams come a little closer.
If you wish to peruse the photos taken over the New Years eve period then go to the enquirer website and don't forget if you wish to receive the enquirer directly in your email inbox you can sign up on www.courchevelenquirer.com.

Lock it or lose it.

No matter how many times people are warned about the threat of theft around resort they wander around in a dream world, leaving staff accommodation doors open, leaving their skis/boards unlocked and out of sight outside bars/restaurants. I could go on but you get the idea. Do people think that thieves and pikeys don't visit posh ski resorts? Obviously not!
Someone recently had his brand new pairs of skis stolen from the terrace of their staff accommodation. "But my back was turned over for a couple of minutes" Unlucky? Yes, but it should be easy to find the thief. He will be the only dickless wonder in resort with a set of plumbs the size of oranges. The same amply endowed people also have been known to walk through staff accommodation at night (while people are asleep) and stealing cash, laptops and ipods with impunity. These stories are not new but are getting more and more common as people don't pull outside doors shut behind them. People in smaller accommodation often don't lock their doors behind them after they have returned from a night out so their roommates can get in easily. They might as well hang a sign saying "please rob me". Most of the thieving is opportunistic with groups going around just trying doors and every year I write these warnings and every year it makes no difference. So instead of acting like a victim, just follow some simple rules, buy a tether (and use it) and hopefully your season will be uneventful in that dept and you won't have to go through the hassle of police reports and making insurance claims.

After the flop Charlie and Matt were playing heads up. Charlie put Matt all in. Matt's AAJJ beat Charlie's JJ77. As Matt was just about to take the pot a pesky 7 appeared on the river.
